Suicide Prevention Organization iFred.org Seeks Donations To Teach Hope

Interested in donating to an organization that wants to teach children about hope in order to end youth suicide? The International Foundation for Research and Education on Depression (iFred.org) is seeking donations to create a research-based curriculum centered on hope, so that no child feels so hopeless they attempt to take their own life.

iFred.org is an organization supported by ArtVersion, the Lake Bluff design firm that deftly handles design and tech support for GazeboNews. iFred is crowd-funding on www.indiegogo.com.

The mission of iFred.org is to shine a positive light on depression and eliminate the stigma associated with the disease through prevention, research and education. Its goal is to ensure 100% of the 350 million people affected by depression seek and receive treatment.
